Journal of Research in Rural Education

Reviewers 2011

The Journal of Research in Rural Education received nearly 50 submissions during the 2011 calendar year, about one-third of which were sent out for review. The review process, done speedily and effectively, takes a considerable amount of effort, the bulk of which is done on a volunteer basis by a set of consulting editors to JRRE and numerous ad hoc reviewers, all of whom are distinguished in their field and who generously lend their time and expertise for the purpose of improving the knowledge base around rural education and communities. The JRRE editorial board would like to gratefully acknowledge the following persons, all of whom agreed to complete one or more reviews during the 2011 calendar year:
